VOLUNTEER APPRECIATION

Commissioner of Police Buel Braggs and Commandant of the Special Constabulary Richard Harris would like to thank all of the civilian volunteers who came forward to be sworn in as temporary Special Constables following the hurricane. Without their commitment and dedication, the work of the police service would have been much more difficult.

However, with effect from midnight on Sunday, 7 November, the appointment of all Special Constable volunteers following the storm will expire, with the exception of those persons who were sworn in for the Neighbourhood Watch Programme. All temporary Special Constables who have been issued with police shirts, hats and any other police equipment are also being asked to return these items to the Police Command Centre, temporarily located at the Cable and Wireless Building at One Technology Square, off Eastern Avenue.

Volunteers who have an interest in continuing their work with the RCIP can apply to join the Special Constabulary. Application forms will shortly be available at all police stations.

Community Beat Officers will contact the volunteers involved in the Neighbourhood Watch Programme in order to provide them with formal identification.
